THE SOURCE

The Delta Controls Global Conference is an event that's not to be missed. During three days of four-hour sessions, we combine larger than life displays with multimedia presentations to show off our latest products and services. You'll see industry speakers from around the globe to keep you informed and give you a competitive edge. Past speakers have come from Cisco, universities in Canada and the US, industry consulting, and more.

In the general sessions you'll learn about a range of topics from new product launches, and Delta services, to smart cities and how big data is being used. The goal is to create stronger Partner organizations through information and innovation sharing. You'll come away packed with new ideas that you can take back to your business and to your colleagues.

Just as valuable, we plan in ample networking time so you can share ideas and best business practices with the other attendees. There are dinners and cocktail receptions to provide you with fantastic venues to make contacts or meet up with people you know.

You'll also be able to meet directly with some of the industry's top device and sensor suppliers at our Vendor Showcase. They bring products, hold giveaways and meet one on one to give you insight into their equipment and devices. Each vendor has allocated booth space during the show so you can keep learning even through the coffee break. Just don't forget to grab a coffee first!

The Delta Controls Conference is three days of learning, networking and maybe a little eating and drinking as well. We host activities for attendees and spouses and we always pick a fantastic venue. Conferences have been held in Aruba, Hawaii and Puerto Rico. All main sessions are half day so there is time to relax with your spouse and fit in more networking. Come join us at our next Delta Controls Global Conference.

You won't regret it.
